NATURAL SCIENCE

THE SELF

PREMISE

Every thought, memory, emotion and decision you experience is associated with physical activity in your nervous system.

QUESTION

If every aspect of your mind could eventually be explained physically, would there still be a meaningful distinction between "you" and your brain?