NATURAL SCIENCE

MEASUREMENT

PREMISE

A scientific measurement is not simply "looking at reality." It requires defining what will count as an observation and how that observation will be represented.

QUESTION

How much of what science knows depends on what scientists decide to measure?